

Frontline Gastroenterology: Call for Trainee Associate Editors

We are looking to appoint 2-3 Trainee Associate Editors to work with the editorial team from December 2022/January 2023 for 2 years.

The post holder(s) will lead the monthly Twitter debate, supported by Dr Phillip Smith, Social Media Editor and work with the editorial team to produce regular blogs, podcasts and other multimedia content. The role will also involve promoting the journal, reviewing submissions, working with the editorial team to commission topical and clinically relevant content and being part of the team to develop the strategy and future direction of the journal.

Applications should be by brief CV including detail of previous experience (not essential) and what you feel you can offer the journal.

Applications to Professor R Mark Beattie, Editor-in-Chief, at mark.beattie@uhs.nhs.uk.

Please contact myself or Dr Philip Smith (drphilipsmithbsg@gmail.com) by email if you would like to discuss the role further. Closing date 10/12/2022.

Frontline Gastroenterology publishes articles that accelerate adoption of innovative and best practice in the fields of gastroenterology and hepatology. It includes original research, reviews, education and practice papers, and news articles.

FG is a companion journal to Gut, published by BMJ in partnership with BSG. It is one of more than 60 specialist journals published by BMJ.

<https://fg.bmj.com/>

@FrontGastro_BMJ